Remembrance Day

Date: November 11, 2025

Introduction

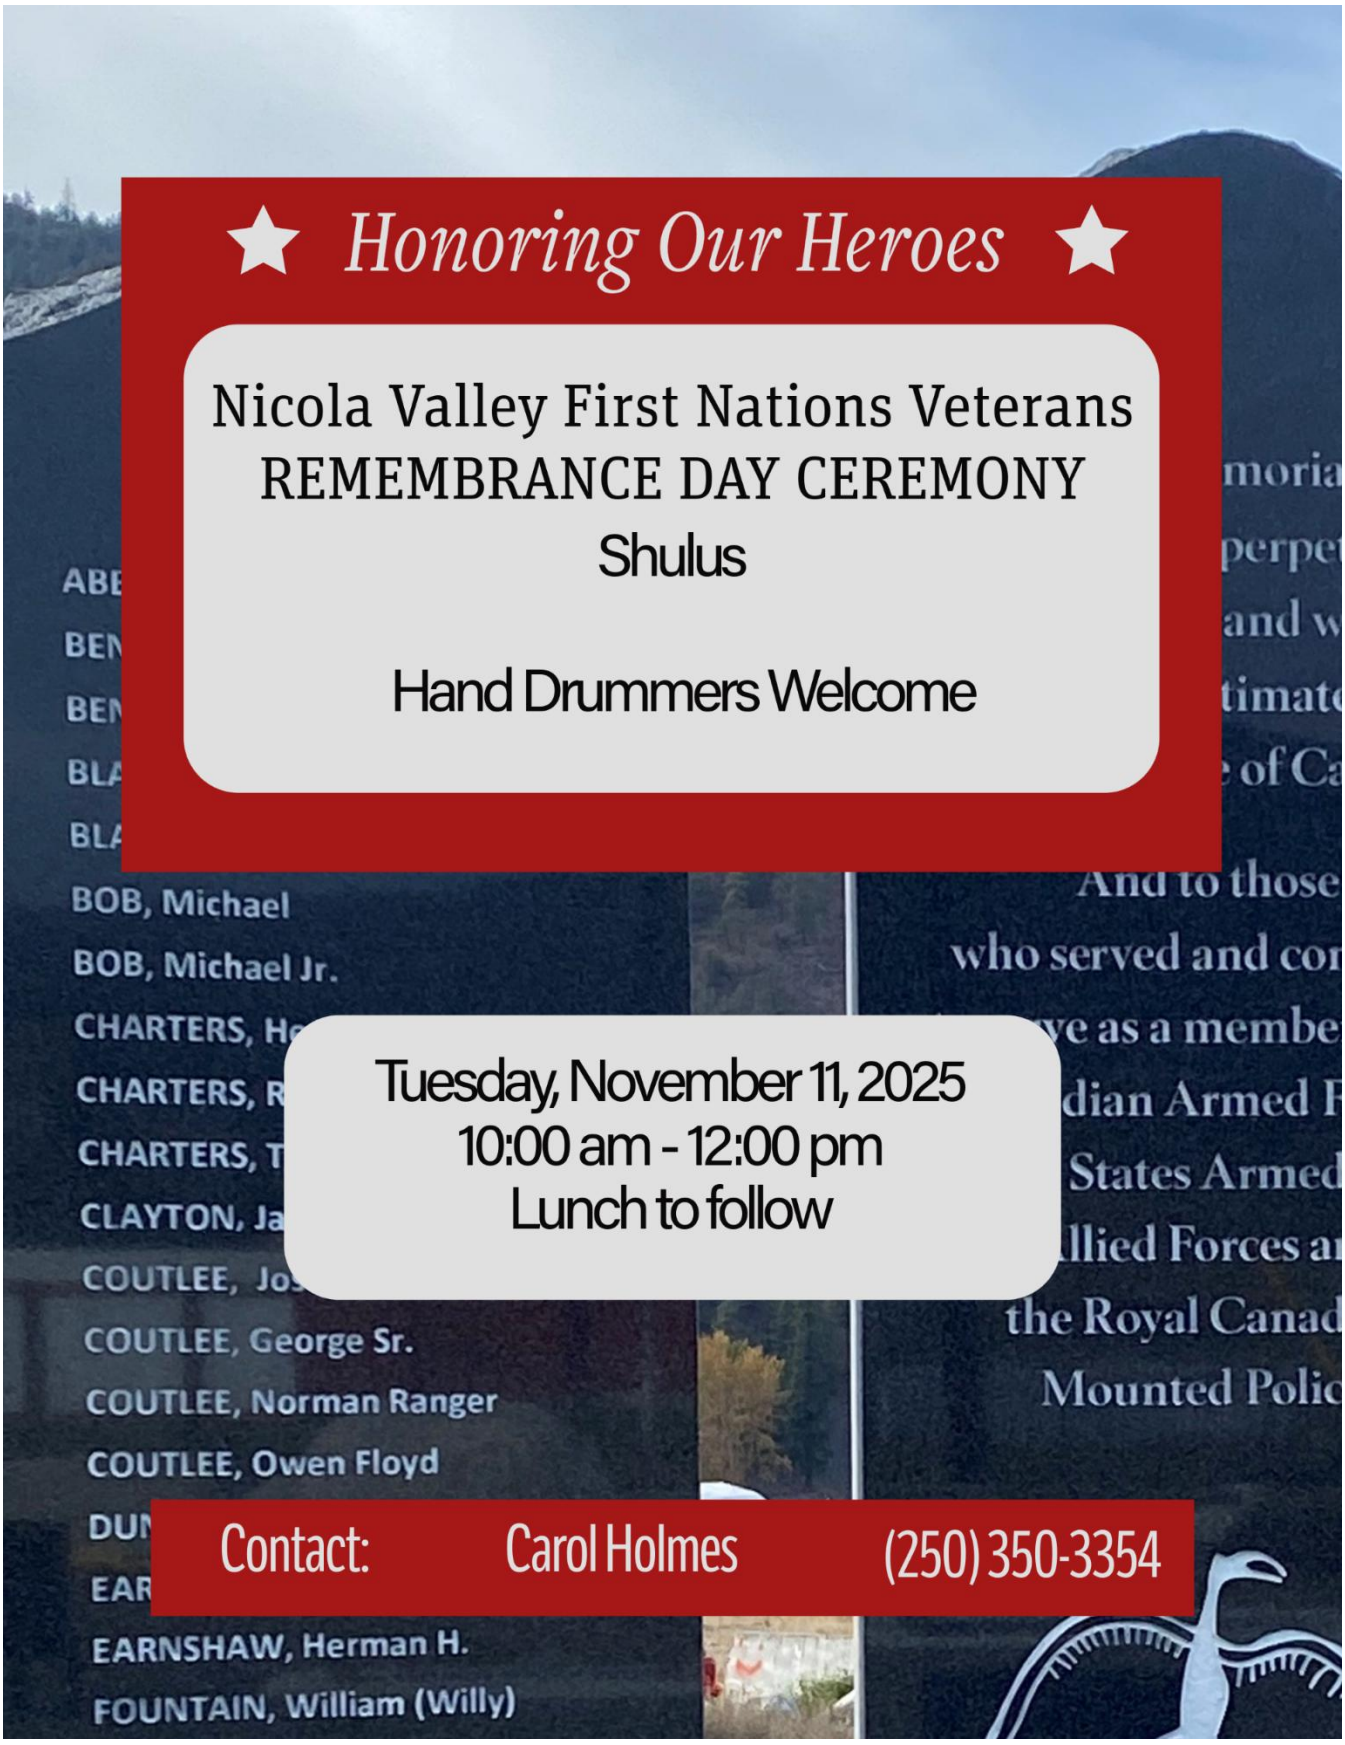

While exact statistics are difficult to determine, the rate of Indigenous participation in Canada's military efforts over the years has been impressive. These determined volunteers were often forced to overcome many challenges to serve in uniform, from learning a new language and adapting to cultural differences, to having to travel great distances from their remote communities just to enlist. The challenges they faced often extended to their post-service life. Many Indigenous war Veterans would not receive equal treatment compared to other Canadian Veterans. “veterans.gc.ca”

Code talkers

While Indigenous soldiers again served as snipers and scouts, as they had during the First World War, they also took on interesting new roles during this conflict. One unique example was being a "code talker." Men like Charles “Checker” Tomkins of Alberta translated sensitive radio messages into Cree so they could not be understood if they were intercepted by the enemy. Another Cree-speaking "code talker" would then translate the received messages back into English so they could be understood by the intended recipients. “veterans.gc.ca”

Tex Gaylord Blankinship was born October 5, 1918, in Merritt, BC to Mary Blankinship (Tom) a Lower Nicola Band member of Nicola (Zoht), BC and Jacob Henry Blankinship of Lacine, Kansas USA.

Tex also known as Gaylord had three other sisters (Etta, Nellie, Susan), and a half brother Francis Blankinship and were raised in Peter Hope area. The family lived a subsistence life through trapping, fishing, berries, roots, natural herbs that they collected from the land. They also raised sheep, chickens, cows, planted gardens and hay crops.

Gaylord later married Teresa Doris Harry on Sunday, December 4, 1944, in Prince George, BC. Gaylord and Teresa had six children, Delphine, Lavone (Bonnie), Darlene (Rena), Dale, Calvin, and Jake Jameson. Gaylord was a humorous father and loved to tell stories, sing/yodel, tease his children and were raised on their Peter Hope homestead in their younger years. And when the children become school age, they moved to Merritt to attend school.

MISSION STATEMENT

To enhance and sustain our quality of life through wellness and culture, and to utilize and preserve all our resources for now and future generations

In 1951 Gaylord's parents and his family moved to Notch Hill ranch. Gaylord started a full-time job at the Adam's River Siding mill and worked there until 1967. Gaylord than moved back to Merritt and started working for Weyerhaeuser Mill.

Gaylord loved the land and in his spare time he continued to maintain his trapline in the Peter Hope area and sold his pelts to the Hudson Bay Company. In addition, Gaylord hunted, fished, and was very involved in the Nicola Valley Fish & Game Club. Where he received many trophies for his prized catches, these catches were fried up by chef Gaylord and served to anybody that sat at his table. Also, Gaylord was an assistant coach for men's fast ball and hockey in which the teams received many trophies.

Gaylord was very involved with the Nicola Valley Veteran's and always took the opportunity to part take in the Remembrance Day parade and would dress in his nicest cloths and wear his metals proudly while he marched down Quilchena Ave in Merritt, BC. Later, to join in the luncheon and socialize with his fellow comrades, family, and friends.

Gaylord was a storyteller and would share his experiences with who ever was interested and willing to listen. Gaylord was even invited to do a presentation on the WW11 with the Merritt Senior Secondary social studies class. In which there was much interest in his experience and stories as a Private.

Gaylord was a very social man and could sometimes be seen out and about with his wife Teresa wearing their authentic buckskin beaded, fringed coats. These buckskin jackets particularly were worn on Labour Day weekend to the annual parade and rodeo. Many, people admired their buckskin jackets and even political positioned people took pictures of them.

Dave Shuter, Unknown, Tex Gaylord Blankinship

Gaylord's last day on August 9, 1986, was doing what he loved fishing at the Fraser River with his son Calvin. And on his way home with his bountiful catch Gaylord joined his ancestors.
